Q&A

Gwen Stefani

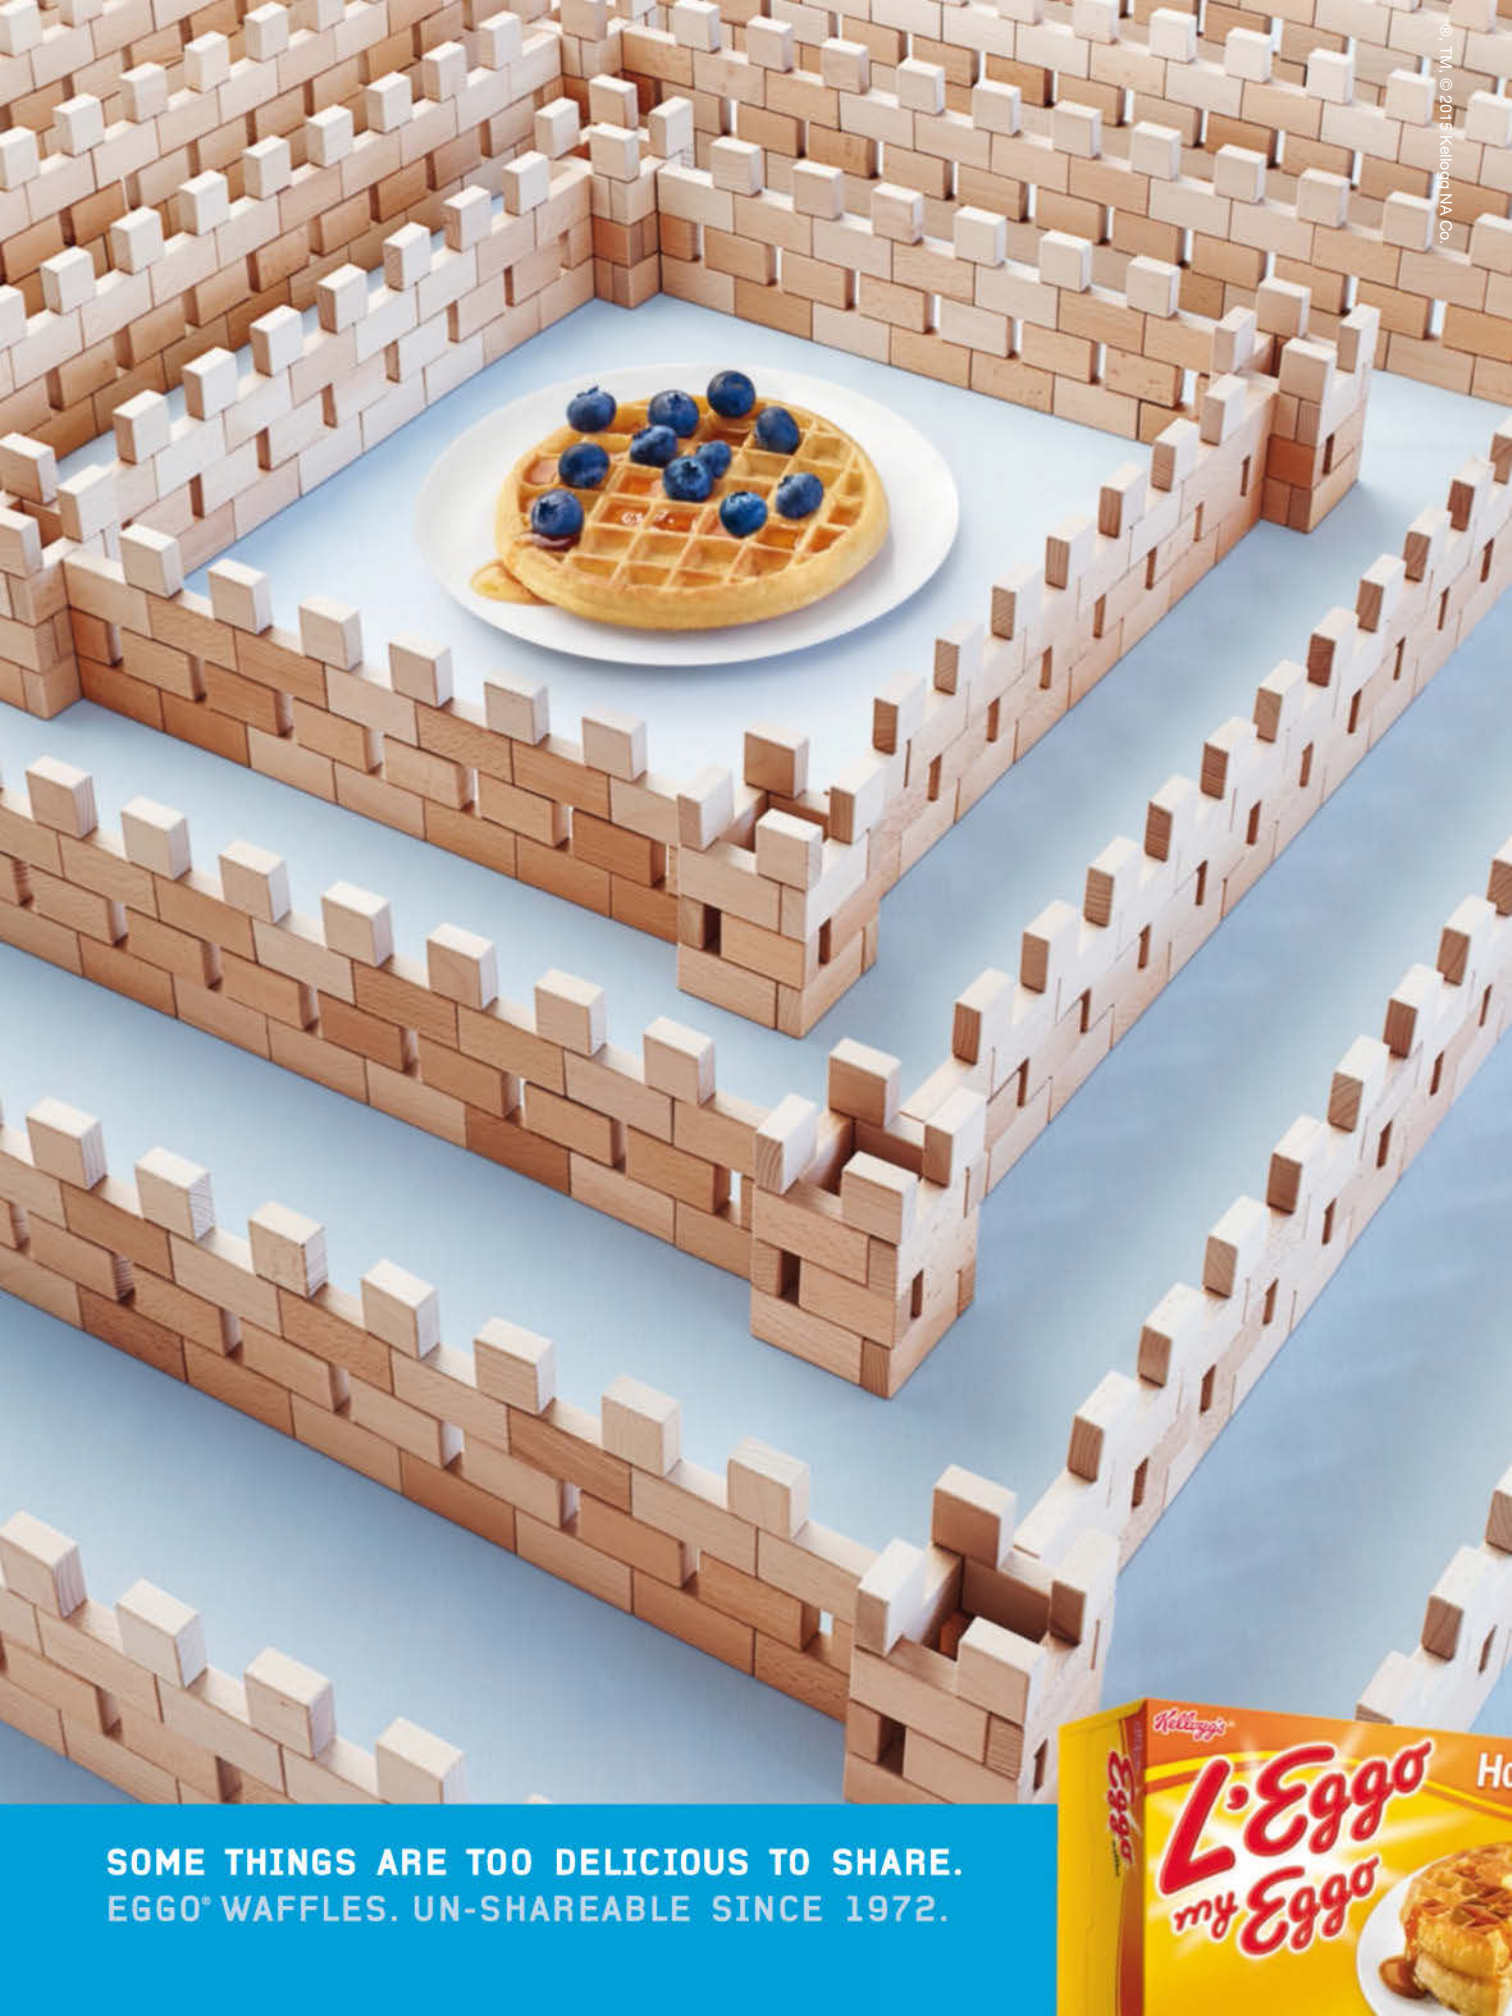

The singer, 45, recently celebrated her Harajuku Lovers fragrances at BeautyCon.

You have a fashion empire, but who is your style muse?
[My oldest son] Kingston. He's got good instincts.

Any new strategy for your return to The Voice this fall?
No. I just want to help somebody make their dreams come true.

Have you ever considered switching your signature hair color?
I've thought about going brunette. But then I'll feel sad. [Laughs] I'll add in a little black to change it up, but I just love being blonde. —MARIAH HAAS

KOURTNEY KARDASHIAN

HOW SHE'S COPING

BY AILI NAHAS

AMID PERSONAL heartache, it was a time for celebration. On July 8, days after her split from Scott Disick, Kourtney Kardashian, clad in a Tinkerbell costume, gathered friends and family at Disneyland in honor of daughter Penelope's 3rd birthday. The smiling group rode the merry-go-round, posed for photos and tucked into ice cream sundaes. Noticeably absent? Penelope's dad, Disick, who friends say isn't exactly wallowing in sorrow. "He's not upset that the relationship is over because 'over' doesn't always mean 'over,'" says a source close to the reality star, pointing to the couple's many ups and downs in their nine-year relationship. "He feels he can apologize and that everything can be okay." Meanwhile Kardashian, 36, is → focusing on her children (she and Disick are also parents to sons Mason, 5, and Reign, 7 months) — and on her career. "Kourtney is very professional," says an insider. On July 10, the same day Disick was spotted in his native Long Island, she filmed scenes for Keeping Up with the Kardashians. Her bond with her sisters has been a source of comfort. "Kim and Khloé are helping her," says the insider. "Though things are difficult now, everyone knows she'll be fine."

"Kourtney is strong," says an insider. And Disick (above, on July 1; left, with his family in May) "knows what people are saying about him," says a source. "He doesn't care."

ALEXANDER TAMARGO/WIREIMAGE

Unfortunately Disick's future is not as clear-cut. He has struggled with alcohol abuse and is scheduled to host a nightclub appearance on July 18 in Atlantic City. "Scott insists that his drinking is under control," says the Disick source. "I'm worried about him. When he's sought treatment [in the past], it's been after an ultimatum [from Kourtney]. If his relationship is over, there's no real incentive for him to get himself together." And the 32-year-old, who has feuded with members of the Kardashian family over the years, now has even fewer people in his corner. "Kris [Jenner] is furious," says the Disick source, who adds that Kim's husband, Kanye West, is also upset over his actions. Says the insider: "Kourtney's family feels she deserves so much better. They're urging her not to take him back." For her part Kardashian is resolute. "Kourtney is more angry and disappointed than sad," says the insider. "She has been let down by Scott many times. But this time she's done." —With reporting by Pernilla Cedenheim and Steve Helling

What My Dogs Know About Me

The actor, 57, whose new series Sex&Drugs&Rock&Roll airs Thursdays on FX, shares secrets only his dogs know:

All the animals in my house think they're smarter than me—and they well may be. They're constantly reminding me about everything. Every morning at 6 a.m., Gomer reminds me that it's time to have an English muffin (and to give him a piece of it, of course). If I'm home alone and start falling asleep in front of the television set, Holly scratches me until I wake up because she knows I'm not supposed to sleep on the couch. And they all know I am the softie of the family when it comes to giving them food. At dinner, they always gather at my end of the table—never by my wife or kids! Holly gets by my feet, Daphne sits on my right and Gomer goes to my left. I give them the leftovers, which keeps me from overeating!

JOHN STAMOS

WHY HE'S GETTING HELP

John Stamos is set for a banner 2015. He's the lead in FOX's fall comedy Grandfathered and is producing and starring in the Full House spin-off Fuller House. But in the midst of his career renaissance, the actor, 51, shocked fans by checking into a residential program for the treatment of substance abuse. "He's focusing on his health," says a source, who adds that Stamos went through "a hard time" after his mother, Loretta, died last September. There have been signs of his alcohol use in the past (he was arrested for a DUI on June 12 and has admitted he was "plastered" during a 2007 talk show appearance), but "if something was going on behind the scenes, he never let it show at work," says an insider who recently worked with Stamos. And even though a pal admits Stamos is "lonely," the source says he's focused on the "big year ahead of him. He knows he needs to take care of himself."

Stamos (left, on Grandfathered) will reunite with his Full House castmates in '16.

BEN AFFLECK & JENNIFER GARNER

WHAT'S NEXT

While much fuss has been made over Ben Affleck's caped costume in Batman v Superman: Dawn of Justice, the actor's wedding band—back on his ring finger—also caused quite a stir on July 11 at Comic-Con in San Diego, where he was promoting the film. Friends say the rings (Affleck has worn his off and on; Jennifer Garner has been spotted wearing hers) are symbolic of the united front the two are trying to keep for the sake of their kids Violet, 9, Seraphina, 6, and Samuel, 3, in the wake of their June 30 announcement that they are divorcing. "The kids are a big part of why they're still wearing them," a source says of the rings. "They just want them to be okay." Lately the kids have been in Atlanta with Garner, who has kept a lower profile while shooting Miracles from Heaven. Affleck, 42, stayed in a guesthouse on Garner's rental property on a four-day visit before Comic-Con and "plans to be there with them as much as he can," says a source close to the couple. "He's playing Mr. Mom, and that is what he wants to do. As difficult as it is, from what we've seen, it's pretty amicable." As they divide their assets in mediation, a divorce filing "isn't too far off," the source adds.

In Atlanta Affleck visited a museum with Violet while Garner, 43, took Samuel for a haircut. "She was smiling and just chatting us up," barber Walter Thomas says. "Her son is a great kid." Garner herself "is doing great. The kids are with her, which is all she wants," adds a close friend. "She's as strong as ever."

—WITH REPORTING BY LIZ McNEIL and ELISSA ROSEN

'THEY ARE WORKING VERY HARD TO FOCUS ON THE KIDS'
—A SOURCE CLOSE TO THE COUPLE

Affleck hit Comic-Con while Garner was in Atlanta on July 11. They're "keeping the kids' lives normal and happy," says a source.

Chronic Idiopathic Constipation (CIC)

"I'VE TRIED LAXATIVES, BUT SOONER OR LATER, THE CONSTIPATION COMES BACK LIKE A PILE OF BRICKS."

Proactively manage your recurring symptoms with LINZESS®

If you're more than occasionally constipated, you may need something other than laxatives. Maybe it's time to talk to your doctor about your chronic constipation symptoms, and ask about LINZESS, a once-daily capsule approved for adults to help manage Chronic Idiopathic Constipation. "Chronic" means the constipation is long-lasting or keeps coming back. "Idiopathic" means the cause is unknown. LINZESS works differently from laxatives. It is thought to work in two ways: by helping to calm pain-sensing nerves*, and by accelerating bowel movements. LINZESS may relieve your symptoms by allowing you to have more frequent and complete bowel movements that are easier to pass.

Bottom line, if your chronic constipation symptoms keep coming back, ask your doctor about LINZESS today.

*This was seen in animal studies and the relevance to humans is not known.

Who is LINZESS for?

Prescription LINZESS® (linaclotide) is for adults with CIC.
It is not known if LINZESS is safe and effective in children.

IMPORTANT RISK INFORMATION

- Do not give LINZESS to children who are under 6 years of age. It may harm them.
- You should not give LINZESS to children 6 to 17 years of age. It may harm them.
- Do not take LINZESS if a doctor has told you that you have a bowel blockage (intestinal obstruction).

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.FDA.gov/medwatch or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

Before you take LINZESS, tell your doctor:

- If you have any other medical conditions.
- If you are pregnant or plan to become pregnant. It is not known if LINZESS will harm your unborn baby.
- If you are breastfeeding or plan to breastfeed. It is not known if LINZESS passes into your breast milk.
- About all the medicines you take, including prescription and non-prescription medicines, vitamins, and herbal supplements.

Side Effects

LINZESS can cause serious side effects, including diarrhea, the most common side effect, which can sometimes be severe. Diarrhea often begins within the first 2 weeks of LINZESS treatment. Stop taking LINZESS and call your doctor right away if you get severe diarrhea during treatment with LINZESS.

Other common side effects of LINZESS include gas, stomach-area (abdominal) pain, swelling, or a feeling of fullness or pressure in your abdomen (distension). Tell your doctor if you have any side effect that bothers you or that does not go away. These are not all the possible side effects of LINZESS. For more information, ask your doctor or pharmacist.

In addition, call your doctor or go to the nearest hospital emergency room right away if you develop unusual or severe stomach-area (abdominal) pain, especially if you also have bright red, bloody stools or black stools that look like tar.

This information does not take the place of talking to your doctor about your medical condition or your treatment.

What is LINZESS?
LINZESS is a prescription medication used in adults to treat irritable bowel syndrome with constipation (IBS-C) and a type of constipation called chronic idiopathic constipation (CIC). "Idiopathic" means the cause of the constipation is unknown. It is not known if LINZESS is safe and effective in children.

What is the most important information I should know about LINZESS?
- Do not give LINZESS to children who are under 6 years of age. It may harm them.
- You should not give LINZESS to children 6 to 17 years of age. It may harm them.

Who should not take LINZESS?
- Do not give LINZESS to children who are under 6 years of age.
- Do not take LINZESS if a doctor has told you that you have a bowel blockage (intestinal obstruction).

What should I tell my doctor before taking LINZESS?
Before you take LINZESS, tell your doctor:
- If you have any other medical conditions.
- If you are pregnant or plan to become pregnant. It is not known if LINZESS will harm your unborn baby.
- If you are breastfeeding or plan to breastfeed. It is not known if LINZESS passes into your breast milk. Talk with your doctor about the best way to feed your baby, if you take LINZESS.
- About all the medicines you take, including prescription and non-prescription medicines, vitamins and herbal supplements.

How should I take LINZESS?
- Take LINZESS exactly as your doctor tells you to take it.
- Take LINZESS one time each day on an empty stomach, at least 30 minutes before your first meal of the day.
- Swallow LINZESS capsules whole. Do not break or chew the capsules.
- If you miss a dose, skip the missed dose. Just take the next dose at your regular time. Do not take 2 doses at the same time.

What are the possible side effects of LINZESS?
LINZESS can cause serious side effects, including:
- Diarrhea is the most common side effect of LINZESS, and it can sometimes be severe. Diarrhea often begins within the first 2 weeks of LINZESS treatment.

In addition, call your doctor or go to the nearest hospital emergency room right away if you develop unusual or severe stomach-area (abdomen) pain, especially if you also have bright red, bloody stools or black stools that look like tar.

Call your doctor for medical advice about side effects. You may report side effects to FDA at 1-800-FDA-1088.

How should I store LINZESS?
- Store LINZESS at room temperature between 68°F to 77°F (20°C to 25°C).
- It is important to keep LINZESS in the bottle that it comes in.
- The LINZESS bottle contains a desiccant packet to help keep your medicine dry (protect it from moisture). Do not remove the desiccant packet from the bottle.
- Keep the container of LINZESS tightly closed and in a dry place.

Keep LINZESS and all medicines out of the reach of children.

Need more information?
- This section summarizes the most important information about LINZESS. If you would like more information, talk with your doctor.

ONE DIRECTION'S LOUIS TOMLINSON 'EXCITED' FOR FATHERHOOD

LOUIS TOMLINSON IS GOING TO BE A DAD! The One Direction singer is expecting a baby with Briana Jungwirth, a Los Angeles-based stylist, People confirms. Though the news came as a surprise, "Louis is happy and very excited about becoming a dad," says a mutual friend. "He thinks Briana will be an amazing mother." Tomlinson, 23, and Jungwirth dated briefly earlier this year and are now "very, very close friends," says the friend. Over the July 4 weekend the pair's families met for the first time and "really hit it off," adds the friend. "They are all excited and totally supportive." (Tomlinson's mom, Johanna, a midwife, has been a great source of advice for Jungwirth.) Already a "hands-on dad," the singer is currently looking for an L.A. home near Jungwirth. For the mom-to-be, the spotlight will be an adjustment. "Briana is a lovely girl. She's absolutely not interested in Louis's fame," says the friend. "She's very private, and most of the time they spend together is out of the public eye." Adds the pal: "Their friendship is extremely strong, and they are really excited about the baby."

'LOUIS IS HAPPY AND VERY EXCITED ABOUT BECOMING A DAD. HE THINKS BRIANA WILL BE AN AMAZING MOTHER' —A FRIEND

Though Tomlinson and Jungwirth (here in Los Angeles on May 11) are no longer dating, they have an "extremely strong" friendship, says a friend.

MORNING GLORY
No matter what, because I have a family, my days start super-early. I get up on my own and have a little time to myself.

6:00 a.m.
GLAMMING IT UP
Now that I have short hair, it only takes me about an hour to get ready to shoot the show.

8:00 a.m.
JAVA JOLT
Coffee makes me anxious, but I half finish a latte every morning.

1:00 p.m.
LUNCH AFTER ART SHOW PREP
I never know when I'll get to eat lunch, but I usually grab something quick like sushi.

4:00 p.m.
A SHOW OF SUPPORT
This is right before the art show, and my friends came to see what I'd been working on.

5:00 p.m.
ARTSY
During my performance-art piece I used a sculpture of my dad's head!

5:30 p.m.
DADDY'S GIRL
My dad (Lionel Richie) stopped by to check out the show. He's a jokester himself.

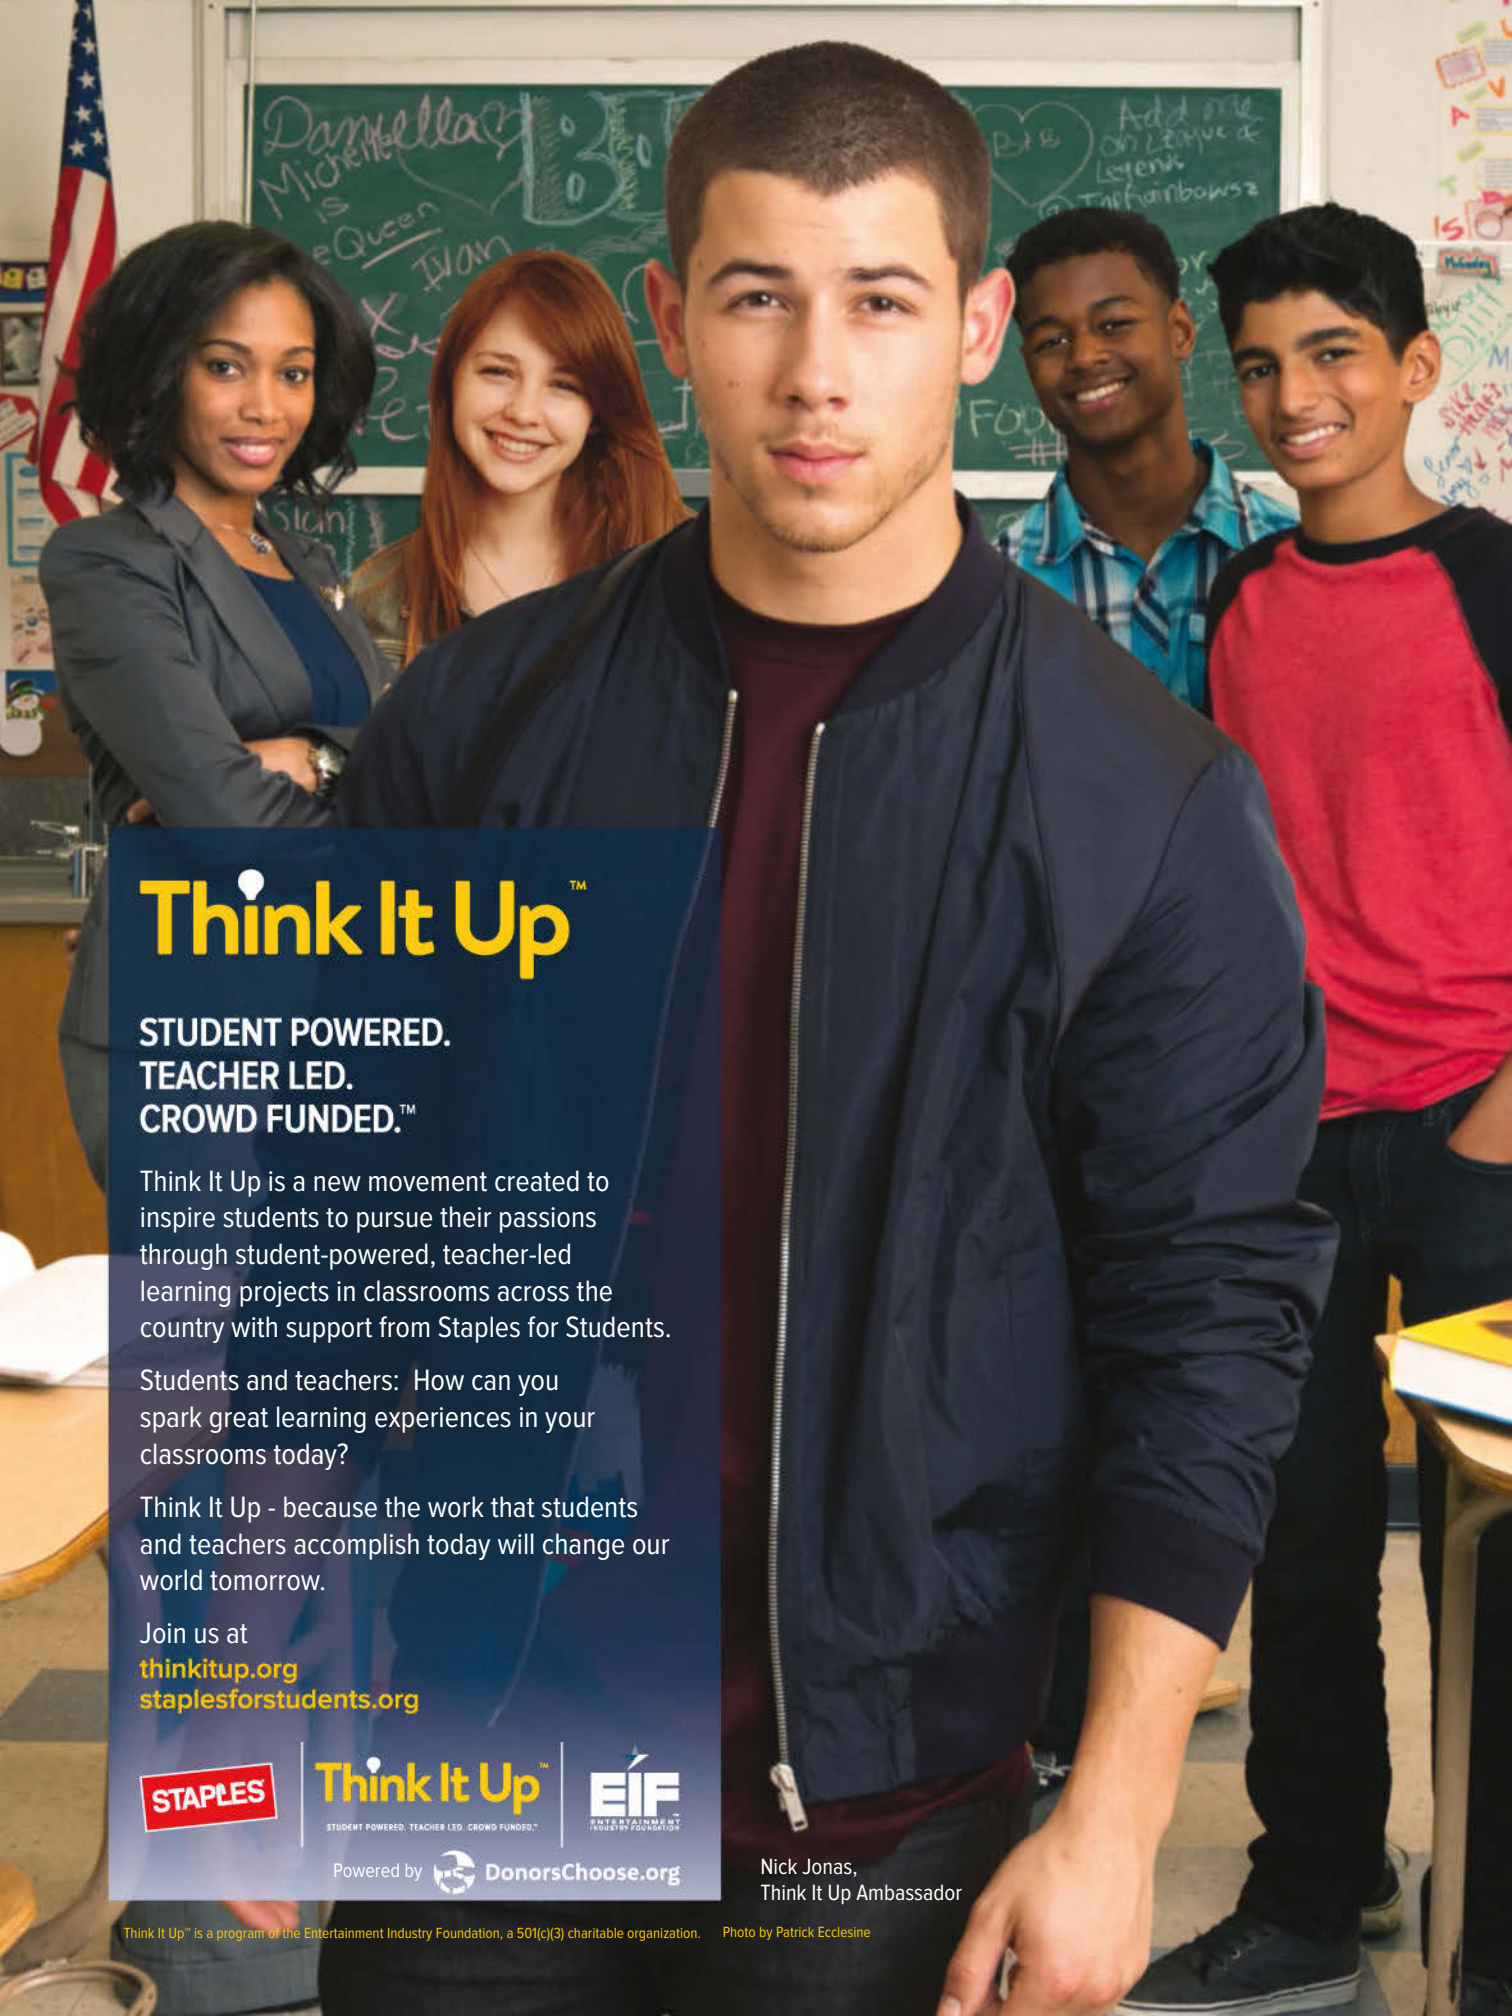

9:00 p.m.
SELF-EXPRESSION
I ended the night exercising my freedom to create art anywhere. You've got to tune in to see how my friend Tracy felt about that.

11:00 p.m.
BEDTIME
Like I said, I'm a morning person, not a late-night person. I pack it in early and dream about having time for a nap the next day.

Lawrence of Arabia star Omar Sharif Dies at 83

The dashing Egyptian actor, also known for Doctor Zhivago, suffered a heart attack in Cairo

After beginning his career in the 1950s by appearing in films in his native Egypt, Omar Sharif, who was born Michael Chalhoub, made his way to Hollywood. Known best for his Oscar-nominated role as Sherif Ali in the 1962 epic Lawrence of Arabia, he is also remembered for his parts in Doctor Zhivago, for which he won a Golden Globe, and Funny Girl, in which he starred alongside Barbra Streisand. He returned home later in life, dying July 10 in Cairo, where he was buried. "I feel lucky to have had the opportunity to work with Omar, and I'm profoundly sad to hear of his passing," Streisand tells People. Sharif is survived by his son, Tarek El-Sharif, who revealed in May that his father suffered from Alzheimer's disease and was having a hard time remembering the names of his movies and costars. His last major American film credit is 2004's Hidalgo. In addition to being an esteemed actor, Sharif spoke five languages and was a highly ranked bridge player, writing multiple books on the game.

Schumer ties one on with Hader—but can he rope her in?

MARY CYBULSKI/UNIVERSAL STUDIOS

No. 1 Trainwreck

Comedian Amy Schumer arrives on the big screen, railing, wailing, flailing—and very funny

MOVIE COMEDY Drunk, caustic and a little bit racist, relationship-resistant journalist Amy (Schumer) is Bridget Jones without the tact, sweetness or pity. It would take a saint to love her. Enter Aaron (Bill Hader), a pioneer in sports medicine who volunteers for charity and is besties with LeBron James. He's so perfect, he'd be cloying if it weren't for Hader's sly wit matching Schumer punch line for punch line. Yes, Trainwreck mines the career-gal-needs-a-man trope, and like all Judd Apatow films it could use a 20-minute trim. But Schumer's raunchy script and the nifty cast (Tilda Swinton is divine as Amy's breezily cruel boss) deliver both laughs and feeling. (July 17, R)

No. 2 7 Days in Hell

TV COMEDY Aaron Williams (Andy Samberg), a miserably frayed bad-boy tennis star, hungers for a comeback after disasters that include prison and an anatomically misbegotten design for men's briefs. Across the net: Charles Poole (Kit Harington), a young, dumb-bunny Brit. ("He was always sweet," says his mother, "and properly fed.") You'll love it. (HBO Go)

Andy Samberg with Andre Agassi hair.

Holmes (McKellen) scrutinizes a most tantalizing clue (Hattie Morahan).

No. 3 Mr. Holmes

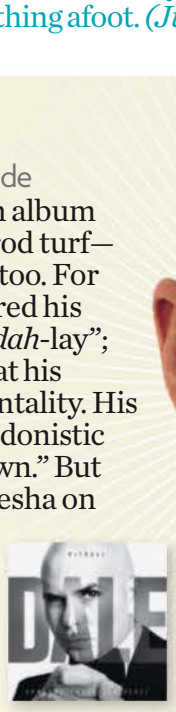

Ian McKellen gives Sherlock something new: a heart

MOVIE DRAMA Now here's a puzzle worthy of Sherlock Holmes (McKellen): At 93, with no Watson around to ground his dazzlingly intricate deductions, and his memory fading like twilight, is Holmes still a great detective? Yes, and a more empathetic one. Mr. Holmes finds him living by the sea, in the care of a housekeeper (Laura Linney, salty and earthy), aching to recall the solution to a 30-year-old case. McKellen makes us feel the race of time acutely: As Holmes grows frailer, the game isn't the only thing afoot. (July 17, PG)

No. 4 Pitbull, Dale

A welcome getaway with Mr. Worldwide

MUSIC LATIN While Pitbull's ninth album revisits some smoothly trod turf—partying, women—it's a departure too. For years the Miami rapper has peppered his hip-hop hits with the word dale (pronounced "dah-lay"; rough translation: "do it"). So it's only fitting that his second Spanish album plays up that YOLO mentality. His signature Spanglish, of course, is present on hedonistic bangers like "El Party" and "Baddest Girl in Town." But the man known for bringing on A-list guests (Kesha on "Timber" and Christina Aguilera on "Feel This Moment") this time highlights rising Latin talent, like Fuego and Mohombi & Wisin. Ricky Martin is here too, on "Haciendo Ruido." You don't have to be fluent in Spanish to sing along to the infectious chorus.

No. 5 Irrational Man

MOVIE COMEDY If Woody Allen wanted to kill us, he'd get away with it. The evidence: Crimes and Misdemeanors, Match Point and now this. A bloated philosophy professor (Joaquin Phoenix) devises an ingenious plot to dispatch a bad judge while lusting after an ardent student (Emma Stone). Man may not have the depth of those earlier films, but when it hits, it stings. (July 17, R)

Murder? I just Kant! Stone and Phoenix debate death.

Avan Jogia is a young pharaoh on the goah-goah.

No. 6 Tut

Live fast, die young, leave a beautiful mummy

TV DRAMA Unlike Ridley Scott's Exodus: Gods and Kings, Tut doesn't visually redefine how we imagine ancient times, and the acting mostly adheres to old-school Bible epic (hiss, purr, hiss again). But the story of the legendary Egyptian ruler, born ca. BC 1341 and dead not many moons later, gains momentum as the boy king (Avan Jogia) begins to understand power. Ben Kingsley is wise, wary and rather funny as Ay, an adviser painstakingly shaping policies to his own ends. Rome, after all, wouldn't be built in a day. (Spike, July 19, 9 p.m.)

The former Disney princess is in a winkingly naughty mood.

No. 7 Demi Lovato 'Cool for the Summer'

MUSIC POP The teasingly bisexual innuendo of Lovato's single has stirred up more ripples than even her recent poolside tumble, but if this latest single makes a splash—and it will, well past summer—credit those powerful pipes and Max Martin's thundering production.

A noble spirit embiggens the smallest man: Rudd prepares to bug out.

No. 9 Ant-Man

Honey, they shrunk the Marvel superhero!

MOVIE FANTASY With Iron Man getting rusty and the Hulk sulking God knows where, the Avengers need a little help—teensy-weensy help, actually. Ant-Man finds Scott Lang (Paul Rudd) just out of prison for robbing from the rich and giving to the 99 percent and puts him in a shrinking supersuit made by Dr. Hank Pym (Michael Douglas), a scientist trying to stop his former protégé. That the stakes are low befits the Marvel-lite tone, with its fun sidekicks (Michael Peña and rapper T.I.) and visual puns. Ant-Man could use more of Rudd's pure charm, but we'll take him at any size. (July 17, PG-13)

No. 10 MS MR How Does It Feel

MUSIC POP The second full-length album from the alternative duo—singer Lizzy Plapinger and producer Max Hershenow—keeps the sound of their 2013 breakout, Secondhand Rapture: The songs incongruously (and cleverly) pair tear-stained lyrics reminiscent of Lana Del Rey with blowout, HAIM-like hooks. Whether the track is a synthed-up banger ("Painted") or piano-tinged soul-searcher ("Tunnels"), you'll get the feels.

Is it Jawsome? No, but at least Ian Ziering is in the driver's seat.

No. 11 Sharknado 3: Oh Hell No!

COMEDY/HORROR

TV The Syfy franchise is the honey badger of TV movies—it just doesn't care what you think. How else to justify an installment that features conservative columnist Ann Coulter as Vice President and sexting ninny Anthony Weiner as a NASA employee? Sharks fall from the sky, like manna with teeth, and Ian Ziering runs around killing them. Someone actually took the time to create some visually inventive gags near the end—it's trash with panache. (Syfy, July 22, 9 p.m.)

No. 12 Harper Lee, Go Set a Watchman

Atticus Finch—a racist? This time Lee's hero is not the man we loved in Mockingbird, but her second novel is still worth reading EDITED BY KIM HUBBARD

NOVEL Readers who remember Atticus Finch as a bastion of goodness are in for a rude awakening in this follow-up to Lee's classic, To Kill a Mockingbird. In Go Set a Watchman, an adult Scout—now called by her given name, Jean Louise—returns home to Maycomb, Ala., from New York City to visit her ailing father. Lee's writing is comforting and familiar, and 26-year-old Jean Louise is as much of a spitfire as her young counterpart, stirring up small-town trouble by swimming with a man at night and insisting marriage isn't for her.

But while Jean Louise is recognizable, her dad has been transformed. The man who taught his daughter right from wrong is now an ex-Klan member who's part of a council championing segregation. "Do you want Negroes by the carload in our schools and churches and theaters?" Atticus asks at one point. "Do you want them in our world?" It's shocking rhetoric from the honorable lawyer who once so vehemently defended the innocence of a black man accused of rape.

But is he really the same man? Not quite. Watchman is, after all, essentially an early draft of Mockingbird, discovered last year in a safe-deposit box and published with Lee's blessing. Lee has said that when she submitted it for publication in the '50s, her editor asked her to revise it with a focus on Scout's youth. Two years later Mockingbird was born and with it the Atticus Finch who captured our hearts.

So read Watchman as a separate novel, not as a sequel. On its own it's a deftly written tale about 1950s bigotry and a young woman coping with the revelation that her father is not the hero she thought he was. And as you're reading, give thanks for Lee's long-ago editor—who took a good novel and saw the potential for more. –TARA FOWLER

THE AUTHOR IN HER HEYDAY
She wrote different books, she donned different looks: Newly discovered photos show Lee dressed up for a Navy reception in the '50s and fishing on Fire Island in 1964.

A Beloved Classic Tarnished?

To Kill a Mockingbird is taught in thousands of U.S. schools, its hero held up as a near-saint. So what will teachers do now? Educator and Teaching Mockingbird author Dan Sigward, for one, welcomes a "more realistic, complex" Atticus Finch. Prof. Austin Sarat, editor of Reimagining to Kill a Mockingbird, thinks Watchman could be "a wake-up call that the struggle for rights takes more than individual, idealized heroes." Whatever happens in classrooms, Nameberry.com's Pamela Redmond Satran isn't worried that her site's most-viewed boy's name for 2015 will suddenly fall out of favor. "Atticus," she says, "is a cool name."

LEGAL NOTICE

If you purchased Nexium (esomeprazole magnesium) or its generic equivalent for yourself or your family, the partial settlements of a class action lawsuit may affect your rights.

You may be affected by the partial settlements of a class action lawsuit claiming that AstraZeneca AB, Aktiebolaget Hassle, AstraZeneca LP, Ranbaxy Pharmaceuticals, Inc., Ranbaxy Inc., Ranbaxy Laboratories Ltd. (together, "Non-Settling Defendants"), Teva Pharmaceutical Industries Ltd., Teva Pharmaceuticals USA, Inc. ("Teva"), Dr. Reddy's Laboratories, Ltd., and Dr. Reddy's Laboratories, Inc. ("DRL" and, together with Teva, "Settling Defendants") violated various state laws by delaying the availability of allegedly less expensive generic versions of Nexium. The lawsuit alleges Defendants' conduct caused certain consumers and third-party payors (collectively, "End-Payors") to pay too much for Nexium. All Defendants deny any wrongdoing. Settlements have been reached with Teva and DRL. The lawsuit will continue against the Non-Settling Defendants.

ARE YOU AFFECTED? As a consumer, you may be a member of the End-Payor Class on behalf of which the Settlements were reached if you purchased or paid for some or all of the purchase price for Nexium and/or its generic equivalent in AZ, CA, FL, IA, KS, MA, ME, MI, MN, MS, NE, NV, NM, NY, NC, ND, OR, RI, SD, TN, UT (while a resident or citizen of UT), VT, WI, WV, and/or District of Columbia from April 14, 2008 onward, in capsule form, for consumption by yourself or your family. If you are obligated to pay a tiered co-payment (i.e., a co-payment amount that differs between brand and generic prescriptions) or you are obligated to pay a percentage of the purchase price, you are in the Class. Certain third-party payors are also members of the Class.

You are NOT an End-Payor Class Member if you: (a) have a "Cadillac Plan" "flat co-payment" as part of your insurance coverage, which means you must pay a flat co-payment amount for a prescription regardless of whether it is a brand or generic, and all of your purchases of Nexium or generic Nexium were made through this plan; (b) purchased Nexium or generic Nexium only directly from Defendants or only for resale purposes; (c) purchased or received Nexium or generic Nexium only through a Medicaid program; (d) are one of the Defendants or an officer, director, manager, employee, subsidiary, or affiliate of Defendants; (e) are the judge in this lawsuit or a member of the judge's immediate family; or (f) you previously excluded yourself from the End-Payor Class.

WHAT DO THE SETTLEMENTS PROVIDE? DRL agreed to withdraw certain motions, and agreed to provide witnesses, a certification, and a factual proffer for use in the trial involving the End-Payor Class, other plaintiffs, and the remaining Defendants. To settle this lawsuit involving the End-Payor Class and two other plaintiff groups (the Direct Purchaser Class and Individual Retailers), Teva has agreed to deposit a total of $24 million into a Settlement Fund, which will be used to pay: (1) costs and expenses incurred by counsel for all three plaintiff groups; (2) up to $2 million in costs and expenses incurred in continuing the lawsuit against the Non-Settling Defendants; (3) taxable costs and taxes payable on the Settlement Fund; (4) incentive awards to the named End-Payor and Direct Purchaser Class Plaintiffs; and (5) settlement administration and notice expenses. The remainder of the Settlement Fund, if any, will be allocated as follows: (a) $1 million to the End-Payor Class, which may be distributed as a cy pres (charitable) distribution if no further recoveries result in distributions to members of the End-Payor Class; (b) and 61% of the balance to the Direct Purchaser Class and 39% to the Individual Retailer Class.

YOUR RIGHTS & OPTIONS. You have the right to object to one or both Settlements and you (or your lawyer) may appear and speak in Court, but it is not required. The deadline to submit an objection or request to appear is August 10, 2015. Go to www.NexiumCase.com for details.

THE COURT'S FAIRNESS HEARING. The Court will hold a hearing in this case (In re: Nexium (Esomeprazole) Antitrust Litig., MDL No. 2409) at 2:00 p.m. Eastern Time on September 29, 2015 to consider whether to approve the Settlements and a request for the payment of up to $2,500,000 in costs and expenses incurred to date and $5,000 incentive awards to each of the ten named End-Payor Plaintiffs.

WANT MORE INFORMATION? Go to the website, call toll-free, or write to Nexium End-Payor Notice Administrator, P.O. Box 43229, Providence, RI 02940-3229, for more information, including more complete information regarding Class membership and rights.

AWESOME FOURSOME Photographer Mario Testino, who captured the new portraits at the Queen's Sandringham House following Charlotte's July 5 christening, said of William and Kate, "One sees how solid they are together and gets a sense of their strong family values."

Royal Family of 4 Picture Perfect!

A new interview and the sweetest photos yet offer a rare glimpse into the life of Kate, William and their kids

Prince William woke up in the rainy early-morning hours of July 13 and kicked off a routine familiar to many parents: Rolling out of bed at dawn, he kissed his family goodbye and left home to clock in for a 7 a.m. shift. Because it was his first day on a new job, "I'm feeling the nerves," he said in a candid new interview just before beginning work as a pilot for the East Anglian Air Ambulance service. But he was quick to note that his wife, Princess Kate, had things well under control at home with their two young children, 10-week-old Charlotte and 2-year-old George. "Catherine has been doing an amazing job as a mother," he said, "and I'm very proud of her."

This is the modern royal family as you've never seen them: balancing official duty with shift work—William, 33, is the first senior heir to the throne ever to hold a civilian job—inviting the public to attend Charlotte's July 5 christening and opening up about parenthood in unexpected new ways. Active Prince George "is a little monkey," William shared, while Charlotte "has been a little joy of heaven." Asked about his earlier comment that having two children would be a "game changer," William said, "It is more responsibility, looking after two little ones, especially when George is around.... But it is fantastic having a lovely little family, and I am so thrilled."

The family's joy was on full display at Charlotte's christening, which brought together four generations of royals and both sets of in-laws. "It was very heartwarming to see the close relationship between them all," said famed photographer Mario Testino, who snapped the day's portraits. A close friend described the celebration to People as a "quintessentially English day"—one in which George was permitted to have his shoes on the furniture and 89-year-old Queen Elizabeth could be seen bending down to toddler eye-level to chat with him. Kate, meanwhile, did her own makeup for the historic photos. (Her longtime hair pro Amanda Cook Tucker likely styled the 33-year-old mum's chic bun.) It was, adds the friend, "a wonderfully happy occasion."

For William, whose parents split when he was 10 and who lost his mom, Princess Diana, when he was barely 15, the family unity brings tremendous fulfillment. "William likes nothing

WHERE WAS UNCLE HARRY? He missed out on a godparent nod and his niece's christening, but the royal adventurer, 30, is doing what he loves. Currently embedded in Namibia with Dr. Pete Morkel, a top veterinarian, he is helping to combat threats to the endangered black rhino. "It's three months of hard grafting," he said before he left. Working with Morkel "is like my dream."

Dermatologist Recommended for Scars and Stretch Marks.

GfK, 2014

"I read about Bio-Oil in a magazine, and decided to try some. I had been using two other products, which are both expensive. I felt they made some improvement but then I tried my Bio-Oil and... oh my goodness! I am using it on my arms, hands, chest, neck and complete face. The texture and color of my skin is amazing. I had two blemish scars on my face, which I notice less now, and the colour of my skin has evened out – I didn't realise it was irregular until it changed. I told my husband I'm going to bathe in the stuff!" Robynn Rose

Bio-Oil® is a specialist skincare product formulated to help improve the appearance of scars, stretch marks and uneven skin tone. Its unique formulation, which contains the breakthrough ingredient PurCellin Oil™, is also highly effective for ageing and dehydrated skin. For comprehensive product information and results of clinical trials, please visit bio-oil.com. Bio-Oil is available at pharmacies and selected retailers at the recommended selling price of $11.99 (2fl.oz.). Individual results will vary.

more than sitting around a table at mealtimes and having a good laugh," the friend says of the life he has built with Kate in the Norfolk countryside—a cozy place that held special meaning for Diana, who had fond memories of growing up there. "They seem to be settling in nicely," says a local who lives in the village of Anmer, where the couple's country estate is nestled. The royal parents enjoy stealing away for walks on the beach with cocker spaniel Lupo and have visited a local pub. "Our landlord said they were an absolutely lovely, down-to-earth couple," says a villager in nearby Great Bircham, adding, "We have seen Kate driving through on her own. She comes and goes as she pleases."

As for expanding their family, William himself addressed the question in his new interview, telling the BBC, "We've only just had the second one! You never know what is going to happen in the future." But multiple friends have told People that it is a matter of when, not if. Says one pal: "I would put money on them having more."

GEORGE TURNS 2!

How to throw a party fit for a 2-year-old future king? Prince George's July 22 birthday will be spent "privately as a family," a Palace source tells People. Of course, his grandma Carole Middleton does run a party-supply business—and she may have offered a few clues in her recent column for Little London Magazine. "We've always believed that parties do not have to be lavish," she wrote, suggesting British games such as "What's the Time, Mr. Wolf?" and "Grandmother's Footsteps." One given: George will own the day. Says Sarah Dixon, a maternity nurse who has worked with friends of Will and Kate: "He's a confident little boy."

Stars' SUMMER WEDDINGS

Down-home or glam, the stars—Jennie Garth, Nicky Hilton and Josh Elliott—said 'I do' in style

Jennie Garth & Dave Abrams
'HE COMPLETES ME'

Los Olivos, Calif., July 11
After a whirlwind romance, the couple tie the knot in an intimate ceremony, surrounded by friends and family

COUNTRY LOVE
The newlyweds share a sweet moment after their romantic ceremony on Garth's California ranch.

LOVE, LAUGHTER & A NEW BEGINNING
1. "I fell in love with her girls," says Abrams (with Garth and, from left, Luca, Fiona and Lola). 2. The wedding bands—his in platinum and hers in yellow gold with 2 carats of black diamonds—are from jeweler Aria Golriz. 3. Claire Pettibone custom-made Garth's ethereal gown, which features silk tulle embroidered with a blossom-and-leaves motif. 4. Garth brought moments of levity to her vows, promising to be a Phillies fan and "watch the Golf Channel 24/7."

Just a few hours before her wedding, Jennie Garth was calmly running down a to-do list that would make Martha Stewart swoon: Rewire outdoor chandeliers, check. Hang paper lanterns in trees, check. Prepare flower crowns for her daughters—Luca, 18, Lola, 12, and Fiona, 8—to wear during the ceremony. And . . . check! With her blonde hair pulled back in a messy ponytail and arms full of assorted DIY materials used to decorate the rose-and-hydrangea-adorned altar, Garth considered one task she still needed to address. Before guests started to arrive, she realized, "I should probably shower!"

Indeed, by the time Garth, 43, walked down the aisle to marry actor Dave Abrams, 34, just before sunset on Saturday, July 11, she was way more than bride-ready. "She was drop-dead gorgeous," says Abrams, who, like the roughly 120 guests gathered at Garth's bucolic six-acre ranch in Los Olivos, Calif., laughed and cried throughout the intimate garden ceremony. Wearing a nontraditional Claire Pettibone gown, Garth made an immediate impact. Says Abrams: "When I saw Jennie in her dress, nothing else mattered. I just lost it."

'I JUST FEEL REALLY CALM WITH DAVE, AND HE MAKES ME LAUGH'
—JENNIE GARTH

The emotional moment marked a glorious new chapter for Garth. After weathering heartbreak during her split from Twilight actor Peter Facinelli in 2012 (an earlier marriage to Dan Clark also ended in divorce), the Beverly Hills, 90210 star worked hard to get back on her feet. "I didn't know if I would ever

A DAY TO REMEMBER
1. Garth hand-painted a welcome sign. 2. Your Little Local served up coconut moonshine mojitos and Drunken Arnold Palmers. 3. Wedding stylist Landi Stone incorporated Garth's mom's antique lace and crystal at the vintage-inspired reception. 4. Tori Spelling says, "I've never seen Jennie so happy!" 5. The couple got playful with pie. 6. The first dance was to "Angels" by The xx.

find love again," she says. "I was a wreck for a few years. I fell apart and then I put myself back together." By the time Garth met Abrams on a blind date just this past December, she was in a healthy place. "I was so happy in my house, happy with my girls and just really loving my life," she says. "But like they say, when you least expect it or when you don't even want it, it happens. In a way everything was going against us, but it just felt right. We fit together. He completes me."

Smitten from the start, the two "fast-tracked" their romance while quickly making Luca, Lola and Fiona a shared priority: "I threw him in 100 percent," Garth says. The Virginia-raised Abrams didn't blink at the prospect of becoming a stepdad. "He fit in without missing a beat," says Garth. Echoes Abrams: "It's not about me anymore. Jennie puts the kids first in everything, and I fell in love with her because of that."

The girls, adorable in dresses by Jenny Yoo, made up the couple's entire wedding party. At one particularly moving moment, Abrams made promises to each daughter from the altar. Alternately funny ("I vow to take your jokes about my skinny fatness like a man") and heartfelt ("I vow to protect you, care for you and love you forever"), he brought Garth to tears.

As guests sipped coffee and even moonshine (a nod to the evening's down-home feel) past midnight, the newlyweds stole away for a moment to reflect on a day they'll never forget. "It was unreal—I didn't want it to end," says Garth, holding Abrams's hand under a starry sky. "It was the perfect night."

Paris Hilton compared sister Nicky and James Rothschild to "a prince and a princess," so it's only fitting that the couple's July 10 wedding was held at the iconic Kensington Palace. (Yes, that Kensington Palace.) And when it came to the festivities, it was clear the hotel heiress, 31, and her billionaire beau of four years, 30, spared no expense. The bride wore an ivory and silver guipure Valentino Haute Couture gown (the edge of her veil was blown under a Bentley's tire, but no matter), and the menu consisted of lobster, caviar, foie gras and champagne. "They're just perfect for each other. They're best friends," maid of honor Paris told People, adding on Instagram, "Once in awhile, right in the middle of an ordinary life, love gives us a fairy tale."—Lanford Beard

BEAUTIFULLY BLENDED
"We're believers in the modern family," says Elliott (with Cho and their daughters Louisa, left, and Sarina).

Josh Elliott & Liz Cho

LOVE SAVES THE DAY

Montecito, Calif., July 11
After losing his mother just weeks before the wedding, the anchor is focusing on his new family

IT'S IN THE DETAILS
1. At the gorgeous Villa Sevillano private estate, the pair said "I do" in front of 70 guests, including the Weather Channel's Sam Champion (Elliott's former ABC colleague), who served as officiant. "I had never seen Sam so nervous," laughs Elliott. 2. Cho's engagement ring was Elliott's dad's wedding band. 3. To honor Elliott's mom, Toni, the couple's daughters placed flowers on an empty chair. 4. For dinner guests enjoyed four courses of fresh coastal cuisine. 5. "With them being only children, now our girls have a true significant other in their life," says Cho.

For Josh Elliott and Liz Cho, their intimate garden wedding near Santa Barbara, Calif., July 11 was made sweeter by experience. "Since it's the second marriage for both of us, it's really a time to take stock in what matters most," says the NBC Sports anchor, 44, who met Cho, 44, an anchor for New York City's ABC affiliate, when they both worked at ABC.

And these days what matters most to each of them is, unequivocally, family. Just three weeks before their wedding day, the couple was rocked by tragedy when Elliott's mother, Toni, died suddenly after going into septic shock. "It was a massive, brutal moment," says Elliott. "I don't wish that feeling on anyone." But in despair, he found his silver lining. "It's really easy to fall in love with someone in good times," says Elliott. "But to see what kind of bedrock Liz has become for me has been everything."

Buoyed by family and friends, the couple made the tough decision to go forward with the wedding. "We chose joy," says Cho. "We both know Toni would have said, 'There's no way you're canceling on my account.'" Among the many moments they hold dear was watching their daughters (Cho has Louisa, 8, and Elliott has Sarina, 6, from their previous marriages) serve as maids of honor. "The best part of marrying again is the ability to be there with your children and watch them in that moment." Adds Cho: "It was the first time I got to hear Sarina say 'stepmom.' It was one of the best nights of my life." —Janine Rubenstein

AMANDA PETERSON

A TEEN STAR'S SAD DOWNFALL

HOW PATRICK DEMPSEY'S FLAME IN CAN'T BUY ME LOVE WENT ON TO A TROUBLED LIFE AND TRAGIC DEATH

Peterson (with Patrick Dempsey in Can't Buy Me Love) "had a cute sense of humor and a love of history," says her mother, Sylvia.

Amanda Peterson was just 16 when Can't Buy Me Love made her, for a moment, the most popular high school student in the country. As a cheerleader in the 1987 comedy, she captivated Gen-X movie fans with her all-American beauty and chemistry with Patrick Dempsey, who starred as a nerd paying her to pretend to be his girlfriend. Offscreen Peterson "was just so much fun," says her mother, Sylvia. Adds longtime friend Tawnya Bowie: "She was bubbly, she was Mandy, she was funny."

But stardom and good times didn't last. After dropping out of the spotlight more than 20 years ago, the 43-year-old mom of two was found dead in her Greeley, Colo., apartment on July 5, leaving her family, fans and costars reeling. "In my memory she will always be vibrant and young," Dempsey tweeted. "Gone too soon."

Although at press time authorities hadn't ruled on the cause of her death, Peterson's life since her last role, in the 1994 film Windrunner, was troubled. She was arrested five times since 2000 on various charges, including assault, DUI and possession of narcotic equipment. Her mother told Entertainment Tonight that Amanda had struggled with drugs but had been clean recently, and her death was not "a drug thing."

At her memorial service on July 11, her family showed a video of vintage photographs and clips of Peterson the way most will remember her: happy and full of life. "People always have a past; no one is ever perfect," says her friend Bowie. "Amanda had a heart of gold."

Rudd got ripped to play Ant-Man: "My day was centered around fitness."

PAUL RUDD

SUPER SWEETHEART!

HOW THE HEARTTHROB NEXT DOOR WENT FROM CLUELESS TO SUPERHERO OVERNIGHT (OKAY, MAYBE IT TOOK 20 YEARS)

Stunned that Paul Rudd—every Clueless lover's fantasy boyfriend—is suddenly a superhero? Imagine how he feels. "This is crazy!" says Rudd of being cast as incredible shrinking crime fighter Ant-Man (see page 36), the newest hero in Marvel's Avengers mega-franchise. Stepping into the comic books, he notes, "was never in my world in the same way that Westerns were never in my world."

Rudd, 46, is in a new universe now. Twenty years ago this week, he melted '90s girls' hearts as the unassuming cutie who wooed Alicia Silverstone in Clueless. But in a series of moves that "baffled my agents," he admits, he avoided the Hollywood heartthrob path, mixing roles in offbeat indies and hit comedies while settling down to raise son Jack, 10, and daughter Darby, 5, with Julie, his wife of 12 years. "My career has been a little strange," he says. "I don't think, 'Oh, I've done a comedy, now I have to play a serial killer.' It's just like, 'Is there something in here that I respond to?' Good or bad, it's made for a fun ride."

Above: Rudd's wife, Julie, and their kids joined him July 1 as he received a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. Left: with Ant-Man fans at the June 29 premiere.

Brought up in New York and Kansas by his British-born parents, Michael and Gloria, Rudd started in showbiz as…a bar mitzvah deejay. His highlight: meeting Neil Diamond at one bash. "The song playing was 'Everybody Have Fun Tonight' by Wang Chung," recalls Rudd. "I asked him, 'Are you having fun tonight?' And he said, 'Yes, yes I am.' And I said, matter-of-factly, 'More importantly, are you wanging chung tonight?' And he looked at me, quite serious, and said, 'Well, I try and wang chung every night.'"

After landing a role on TV's Sisters, then heading to Oxford to study classical theater, Rudd came back to Hollywood and achieved every Shakespearean actor's dream: becoming the go-to guy for comedies like Anchorman: The Legend of Ron Burgundy and The 40-Year-Old Virgin. (See next page.) He trained intensively for Ant-Man. "I'd never exercised harder than this," he says, adding that he swore off alcohol and carbs for a year to get into "the best shape I've ever been." Not easy for a guy who has a pub in the basement of his New York home, where he also enjoys sharing music with his kids. "My son is on a Bowie kick. But my children are now exposing me to things too. I'll turn up a Taylor Swift song—it's pretty damn good."

'Here I am, doing the biggest thing of my life, and it's really exciting!'

Though he seems set to achieve a new level of stardom, "you never want to get too used to it," he says of fame. He just filmed an appearance in Captain America: Civil War, and the impact was not lost on him: "It's like, holy s---, it's Captain America!" Won't be long before he's hearing, "Whoa, it's Ant-Man!"

If You Own or Owned Property That Contains High Zinc Content Brass Plumbing Products

You Could Benefit From a Class Action Lawsuit

There is a Settlement in a class action lawsuit filed against Uponor Inc., Wirsbo Company, and Uponor Wirsbo Inc. ("Uponor") and certain developers/builders, subcontractors, and distributors/suppliers ("Other Defendants"). The lawsuit claims that Uponor's high zinc content brass plumbing fittings and components are defective and prematurely corrode (or break down). Uponor and the Other Defendants deny these claims and that they did anything wrong.

Who is included in the Settlement?

Generally, you may be included in the Settlement if your home, non-residential property, or the common area of your home or property located in the United States, built in 2002 or later, contains Uponor brand fittings and plumbing components made of high zinc content brass ("Uponor Yellow Brass Fittings"). A separate settlement involving properties in Las Vegas, Nevada has been reached. (Get more info at the website below.)

What does the Settlement provide?

Eligible property owners can get benefits for certain property damage, such as leaks or flow problems. This includes reimbursement for past repairs and repairs that become necessary in the future. The Settlement will also pay (1) the costs of notice and administration, (2) special service awards to the Class Representatives, and (3) attorneys' fees and costs.

How can I get benefits?

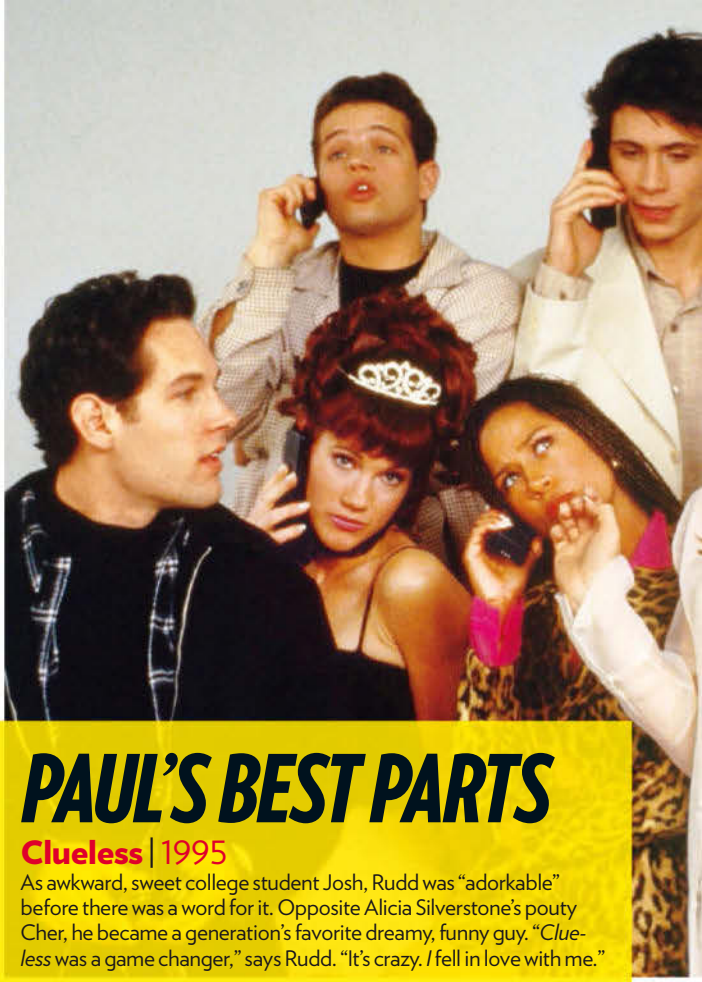

Submit a Claim Form by mail. The timing to file a claim varies. However, if you previously had property damage, you need to file a claim within six months after the Settlement is approved. For future property damage, you will need to file a claim within six months after the damage occurs. The amount of any benefits you may receive will depend on the amount and type of included property that you own and the damage you have experienced and/or repairs or replacement needed. The claims period will run for five years from when the Settlement is approved. Additional details are in the Settlement Agreement available on the website.

What are my rights?

Even if you do nothing, you will be bound by the Court's decisions. If you want to keep your right to sue Uponor and/or the Other Defendants yourself, you must exclude yourself from the Settlement by August 19, 2015. You will give up the possibility of receiving Settlement benefits, but you will not be bound by the Court's orders. If you stay in the Settlement, you may object to it by August 19, 2015. Additional details on how to opt out or object are in the Settlement Agreement available on the website.

The Court will hold a hearing on September 8, 2015 to consider whether to approve the Settlement, a request for attorneys' fees and costs up to $7.5 million, and special service payments of $5,000 per home or homeowners' association to each of the Class Representatives. You or your own lawyer may appear and speak at the hearing at your own expense.

PAUL'S BEST PARTS

Clueless | 1995

As awkward, sweet college student Josh, Rudd was "adorkable" before there was a word for it. Opposite Alicia Silverstone's pouty Cher, he became a generation's favorite dreamy, funny guy. "Clueless was a game changer," says Rudd. "It's crazy. I fell in love with me."

The Object of My Affection | 1998

"Jennifer [Aniston] is somebody that I had known for years before Friends," says Rudd, who later had a recurring role in the hit sitcom. They were tickled to team up for this comedy about a pregnant woman and her gay friend: "We had a conversation, like, 'Could you imagine at 21 you and I in a movie together playing these lead parts?'"

Anchorman: The Legend of Ron Burgundy | 2004

"My hair was already a little long, [and] I was able to grow a mustache and those sideburns pretty quickly," says Rudd of his look for the Will Ferrell comedy. After shooting ended, "I didn't shave my mustache off right away, and when I did, I looked so weird. I had too much face."

CLOCKWISE FROM BOTTOM LEFT: EVERETT (3); SUZANNE HANOVER/UNIVERSAL; SAM URDANK/UNIVERSAL

The 40-Year-Old Virgin | 2005

Ten years later, does Rudd admit that his character was just as nerdy as Steve Carell's? "I was wearing a T-shirt with myself on it. I don't know why that doesn't sound dorky to me," he cracks. In real life, "I don't really think of myself as that dorky. I mean, I have moments, and I take pride in those."

Role Models | 2008

Rudd did double duty on the raunchy comedy with Seann William Scott, cowriting the script and taking a lead role. "There's real gratification when you [write a film] and hear people quote it," he says. "Or you'll see a joke on a coffee mug or a T-shirt, and you'll think, 'Wow, it's actually landed in some very small way.' There's something very cool about that."

LEGAL NOTICE

If you bought certain joint health products containing glucosamine, you could get money from a class action settlement.

Includes Move Free, Move Free Advanced, Pain Free, Lubriflex, Great American Nutrition, Metaform, Muscle Tribe, Victory, Schiff, Kirkland, Member's Mark and Spring Valley brand products

A Settlement has been reached in class action lawsuits against Schiff Nutrition International, Inc., Schiff Nutrition Group, Inc., Reckitt Benckiser LLC and their affiliates (Schiff) regarding their joint health products. The lawsuits claim that the labeling and packaging of these joint health products contain false, deceptive and misleading statements and do not warn consumers about the potentially harmful side effects. Schiff denies all of the claims in the lawsuits and any wrongdoing. The Court has not decided who is right.

WHO IS INCLUDED? You are included in the Settlement Class if you are a resident of the United States who purchased for personal use, and not for resale or distribution, a Move Free, Move Free Advanced, Pain Free, Lubriflex, Great American Nutrition, Metaform, Muscle Tribe, Victory, Schiff, Kirkland, Member's Mark or Spring Valley brand joint health product between January 1, 2005 and May 27, 2015. A complete list of all joint health products included in the Settlement ("Covered Products") is available at www.SchiffGlucosamineSettlement.com or by writing to Schiff Nutrition International Consumer Settlement Administration, P.O. Box 43352, Providence, RI 02940-3352.

WHAT DOES THE SETTLEMENT PROVIDE? Schiff has agreed to a Settlement Fund of $6,510,000 to pay all costs associated with this Settlement. Settlement Class Members who submit a timely and valid Claim Form with proof of purchase, such as a cash register receipt, the box or bottles of a Covered Product containing a readable UPC code and lot number, or documentation showing purchase of the Covered Product and the date and location of that purchase, may claim $10 per bottle of Covered Product for up to five bottles (up to $50 total). Settlement Class Members who submit a timely and valid Claim Form without proof of purchase may claim $3 per bottle of a Covered Product for up to four bottles (up to $12 total). If the total dollar value of valid Claim Forms plus Notice and Administrative Costs, Attorneys' Fees Award and Incentive Awards exceeds $6,510,000, the payment to each Settlement Class Member who submitted a valid Claim Form will be proportionately reduced until the total amount paid under the Settlement equals $6,510,000. If the total dollar value of valid Claim Forms plus Notice and Administrative Costs, Attorneys' Fees Award and Incentive Awards is less than $6,510,000, the payment to each Settlement Class Member who submitted a valid Claim Form with proof of purchase will increase (up to triple the amount of the original claim). If, after increasing these payments, the total payment amount is still less than $6,510,000, the payment to each Settlement Class Member who submitted a valid Claim Form without proof of purchase will increase (up to double the amount of the original claim). If, after increasing the payment for all valid claims, the total payment amount is still less than $6,510,000, the balance will be distributed on a pro rata basis (divided proportionately among the number of Claim Forms submitted and the dollar amount of those claims) to all Settlement Class Members who submitted a timely and valid Claim Form. In addition to payments, Schiff has agreed to certain changes to the marketing and packaging for the Covered Products.

HOW DO YOU GET A PAYMENT? You must submit a timely and valid Claim Form by September 24, 2015. Complete and submit your Claim Form online at www.SchiffGlucosamineSettlement.com, download a Claim Form from the website or get one by calling 1-877-219-9780, or by writing to Schiff Nutrition International Consumer Settlement Administration, P.O. Box 43352, Providence, RI 02940-3352.

YOUR OTHER OPTIONS? If you do nothing, your rights will be affected and you will not get a settlement payment. If you do not want to be legally bound by the Settlement, you must exclude yourself from it. The deadline to exclude yourself is September 24, 2015. Unless you exclude yourself, you will not be able to sue or continue to sue Schiff for any claim resolved by this Settlement or released in the Second Amended Settlement Agreement and General Release. If you exclude yourself, you cannot get a payment from the Settlement. If you stay in the Settlement (i.e., don't exclude yourself), you may object to it by September 24, 2015. More information is in the detailed notice and Second Amended Settlement Agreement available at www.SchiffGlucosamineSettlement.com or by writing to Schiff Nutrition International Consumer Settlement Administration, P.O. Box 43352, Providence, RI 02940-3352.

THE COURT'S FAIRNESS HEARING. The U.S. District Court for the Southern District of California, located the Edward J. Schwartz Federal Courthouse, 221 W. Broadway, San Diego, California 92101 will hold a hearing in this case (Lerma v. Schiff Nutrition International, Inc., et al., No. 3:11-cv-01056-CAB-MDD), on October 30, 2015 at 10 a.m. to consider whether to approve: (1) the proposed Settlement; (2) Settlement Class Counsel's request for attorneys' fees of up to 33% of the $6,510,000 Settlement Fund as well as costs; and (3) a payment of up to $10,000 from the Settlement Fund for the Named Plaintiffs (Luis Lerma, Nick Pearson and Muriel Jayson). You may appear at the hearing or hire an attorney, at your expense, to appear or speak for you at the hearing, but you do not have to.

WANT MORE INFORMATION? Go to the website, call or write to Schiff Nutrition International Consumer Settlement Administration, P.O. Box 43352, Providence, RI 02940-3352.

RAVEN SYMONE

Still So Raven—and So Happy

THE FORMER CHILD STAR SPENT YEARS FEELING 'STUCK IN A BOX.' NOW SHE'S BACK ON TV—THIS TIME ON HER OWN TERMS BY PATRICK GOMEZ

Photograph by NATHANIEL WELCH

1. In 1989, a 3-year-old Symoné was cast on The Cosby Show. 2. That's So Raven broke Disney Channel ratings records when it premiered in 2003. 3. "It's a fun, family environment," she says of joining The View in June.

Raven Symoné didn't plan on being here today. A working actor since the age of 3, Symoné had officially "retired" from Hollywood two years ago at just 27. "I needed a break," she says. "I needed to grow up. I needed a moment to breathe." Even when the opportunity arose to cohost The View alongside her longtime idol Whoopi Goldberg, Symoné required some convincing. "I am actually surprised I said yes," she admits. "I was, like, 'Whoa. Are you returning to your old self?'"

Finding herself has admittedly been a challenge for the former child star. Born in Atlanta, Symoné was just an infant when she began booking print modeling gigs. "I don't remember a moment when I didn't have some type of job," says the actress, who joined The Cosby Show in its sixth season and continued to work steadily through her teens, all while yearning for the comforts of normal life. "It was fun being on a show," Symoné says of spending four seasons on Hangin' with Mr. Cooper. "But I hated filming on Fridays. I was, like, 'I don't want to work. I want to watch Family Matters.'"

Symoné became a star in her own right with That's So Raven and The Cheetah Girls but grappled with the idea of being "stuck" with a squeaky-clean "Disney girl" public image as a teen. "I remember on one show they were, like, 'Stay in the box we created for you.' I was, like, 'Shoot me in the face.' I realized, there had been a plan for me since I was a baby. There was a bucket list that I didn't create, but I just kept checking things off. So I added, 'I want to be the youngest person in my world to retire.'"

That brief retirement coincided with a difficult time for Symoné. In 2012 the fiercely private star was forced to publicly address her sexual orientation when a tabloid published that she was living with girlfriend AzMarie Livingston. "I was tired of answering the same question over and over," Symoné says of her frustrations at the time. Now, with her new role on The View, "I've got to put some personal stuff out there," she says with a laugh. "But now that I'm 29, I feel more comfortable releasing certain things about my life." That includes sharing details of her cozy nights at home (Candy Crush and binge-watching Suits!) with Livingston, who is an actress on Empire. "My partner is in a show that people are going ape crazy for," Symoné gushes. "I'm proud of her."

Eventually the actress says she hopes to settle down and have kids ("I'll get there one day!"), but for now, she's focusing on (truly) enjoying the present. "I've done a lot of things in my life that I've had to just smile through, and I don't want to pretend anymore," she says. "For a long time I didn't enjoy myself in life. But it could all end tomorrow. I don't want to be dying and go, 'I forgot to do this.' Now, I'm living life for myself." ●

Rather than "gay," Symoné prefers to be "labeled a human who loves humans" and calls actress AzMarie Livingston, 28, her "partner."

How She's Handled Her Own Personal Hot Topics

Her Sexuality
Symoné will bring up her sexual orientation "when need be to make a statement or help others." On July 7 she got heated with View guest host Candace Cameron Bure over same-sex marriage.

Her Racial Identity
She weathered controversy after stating she does not identify as African-American. "There is nothing wrong with just being 'American,'" she says. "My family has been here almost 400 years."

The Bill Cosby Scandal
"As a coworker, I choose my words [carefully]," Symoné says of how she responds to questions about her former boss. "But I'm sure it hasn't even scratched the surface, so we will see what happens."

INNOCENCE LOST
After several hours on the run, Ashlee was arrested March 8 in Indiana.

HORROR-BLOGGER KILLINGS

A TEEN'S DEADLY RAMPAGE

Ashlee Martinson killed her parents in cold blood before locking her siblings in a bedroom. Did her obsession with death drive her to kill? By K.C. BAKER

Like a lot of 17-year-old girls, Ashlee Martinson thought her parents were too strict and argued with them over her curfew, her phone and her boyfriend, says neighbor Roy Rasmussen. But the "wonderful, bubbly girl, full of life" he first met when the family moved into a two-story home in the rural, woodsy town of Piehl, Wisc., had a twisted, macabre, dark side: Under the screen name Vampchick, she spent hours writing about death and dying. And on March 8 a story darker than any of her bloody ramblings unfolded when police responded to three 911 cell phone hang-ups and found Ashlee's three sisters, ages 9, 8 and 2, alone in the house with their slain parents, Jennifer and Thomas Ayers. Police say Ashlee fatally stabbed her mother and shot and killed her stepfather, locking her sisters in a room with snacks and juice before fleeing, according to court records. "I never expected what happened to have happened," says Thomas's brother Don Ayers. "This shocked me to the core."

CRIME SCENE Investigators found a rifle in the kitchen and a bloody knife on a bathroom counter.

Since a nationwide manhunt led to Ashlee's arrest in Indiana later that day, along with her boyfriend, Ryan Sisco, 22, those closest to the teen wonder if her obsession with death, coupled with the fact that her parents had forbidden her to date the much older Sisco, drove her to kill. On June 29 Ashlee pleaded not guilty by reason of mental disease or defect to two counts of first-degree intentional homicide and three counts of false imprisonment. (Sisco has not been implicated in the murders.) Says Ayers: "Sadly, this has changed everybody's lives."

It was supposed to be a fresh start for the family: In 2014 Ashlee and her siblings settled into small-town life after Jennifer, 40, married Thomas, 37, whom she'd met online. Ashlee, a junior at Rhinelander High School, often helped care for her siblings—Jennifer's 2-year-old daughter with Thomas and his daughters from a previous marriage—says Rasmussen, who lived nearby. "Her parents restricted how much she could go out with friends and took her phone away all the time," he says. "They were very strict." When he saw her the day before the murders, "I did not recognize the girl who showed up here. She was distant. Something happened. To me, all these things she had put online were a cry for help."

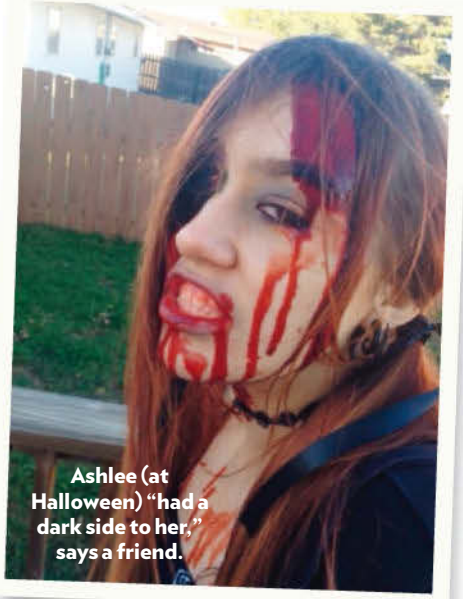

'All the things she put online were a cry for help'
—NEIGHBOR ROY RASMUSSEN

The day of her parents' murders played out like a horror scene she'd written: When Thomas arrived home, a fight broke out about Ashlee's boyfriend, according to court documents. Her sister revealed that after Thomas pounded on Ashlee's door, she heard two gunshots—and saw Jennifer race upstairs, where she and Ashlee began fighting. Then a bloodied and bleeding Ashlee, carrying a knife and gun, told the girls they were going to pretend to camp and put them into a bedroom, tying a cord around the door to lock them inside.

As Ashlee remains in jail, held on a $750,000 cash bond, her shattered family waits for her next court date in September—and wonders if they'll ever understand. "We are just waiting for answers," says Ayers. "But we may never really know what happened or why. Only Ashlee does." ●

A LUST FOR BLOOD

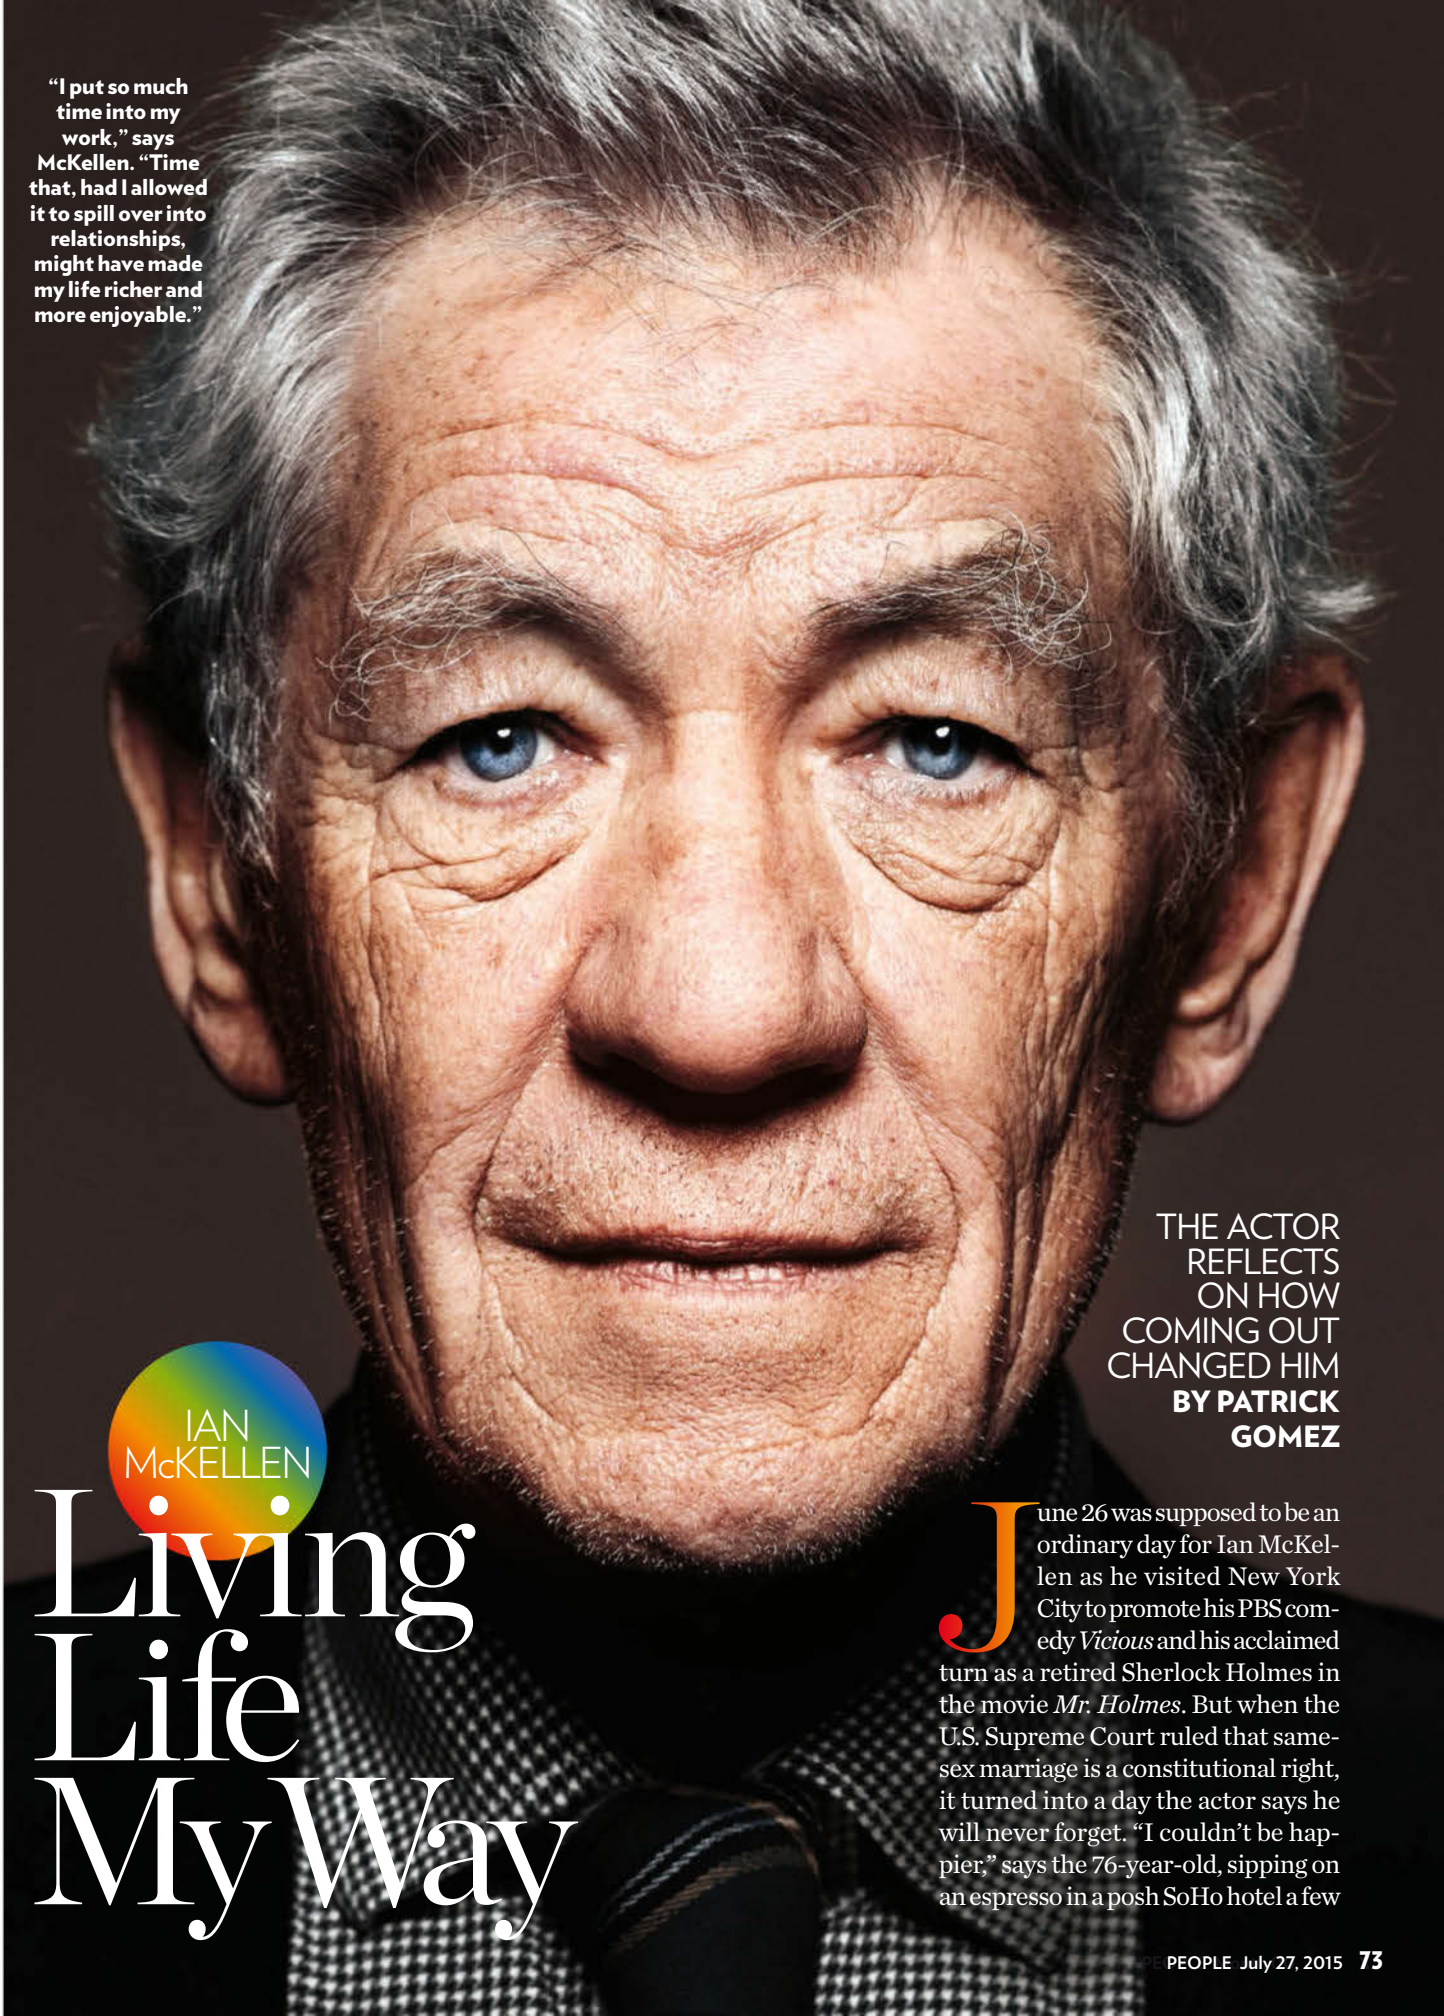

Using the pseudonym Vampchick, Ashlee wrote a blog with graphic posts about torture, murder and death. In a March 2 post titled "Unworthy," she described a character tying a victim to a table before mutilating and killing them and wrote, "the sweet horrors of blood that I thirst for. . . . The last body has been disposed of just hours before, yet I have not been satisfied with the pain, agony and the blood."

Ashlee (at Halloween) "had a dark side to her," says a friend.

"I put so much time into my work," says McKellen. "Time that, had I allowed it to spill over into relationships, might have made my life richer and more enjoyable."

IAN McKELLEN

Living Life My Way

THE ACTOR REFLECTS ON HOW COMING OUT CHANGED HIM

BY PATRICK GOMEZ

June 26 was supposed to be an ordinary day for Ian McKellen as he visited New York City to promote his PBS comedy Vicious and his acclaimed turn as a retired Sherlock Holmes in the movie Mr. Holmes. But when the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that same-sex marriage is a constitutional right, it turned into a day the actor says he will never forget. "I couldn't be happier," says the 76-year-old, sipping on an espresso in a posh SoHo hotel a few hours after the news. "It's thrilling. But this hasn't come out of the blue. This is the result of people working, arguing, lobbying, getting angry and standing up for themselves."

McKellen knows better than most. He came out as gay to his family and the press in 1988, well before his blockbuster roles as Lord of the Rings' Gandalf and X-Men's Magneto turned the British stage veteran into a world-famous star. Playing Gandalf "was a bit of a life-changer," he says, "but in a sense I think it was virtue rewarded. I have been getting better as an actor. I imagine it's the same sort of satisfaction a carpenter gets in being able to make a really good chair and thinking when he's done, 'I made that.'"

Born in Lancashire, England, McKellen discovered his passion for acting during his first trip to the theater with his parents. "I enjoyed what I was watching so much that I wanted to see how it was done," he says. But there was another aspect of the craft that appealed to him. Feeling he "wasn't truly allowed" to be himself because of his sexual orientation, McKellen found acting allowed him the opportunity to "run away from real life."

Though he says he was "never really in the closet," McKellen felt a major shift in his work after he revealed he is gay. "I was finally allowed to be in touch with my own emotions," he says. "So acting became about telling the truth. It was a huge change."

McKellen considers himself incredibly "lucky" that his career has spanned decades (he was nominated for an Oscar in 1999 for Gods and Monsters and in 2002 for The Lord of the Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring), but he wasn't content with simply seeing his professional life prosper. In 1989 he cofounded the U.K. LGBT rights charity Stonewall and since then has taken his activism global. Talking policy with South African president Nelson Mandela in 1995 "was a knock-me-down-dead moment," he says.

When he's not working, McKellen spends his free days planning dinner parties. He hopes to lose some weight and learn to speak French. He admits he should be wearing a hearing aid and is "at that age" where he and his friends "talk about death all the time," but he has no plans to retire. "There's a phrase in Gods and Monsters: 'Making movies is the most wonderful thing in the world—working with friends, entertaining people,'" he says. "That's what I've been able to do for a long time now. And if I couldn't do that, I don't know what kind of fun I'd get out of life." ●

THE MAKING OF AN ACTOR
1. McKellen with his sister Jean in 1946. 2. In 1956, at 16, the actor appeared in Henry IV, Part 2 while attending Bolton School. 3. He calls playing Gandalf in The Lord of the Rings films "all about luck." 4. Mr. Holmes (see page 32) is in theaters now.

'I became a better son, brother and actor— a different actor, anyway'
—McKELLEN ON COMING OUT

McKellen was one of the grand marshals at New York City's annual Gay Pride Parade on June 28.

BETHENNY FRANKEL OPENS UP HER NEW HAMPTONS FARMHOUSE—WHICH SHE CALLS HER 'FIRST REAL HOME.' PLUS 3 MORE STYLISH STAR SPACES!

Photographs by LARSEN & TALBERT

Bethenny FRANKEL

THE REAL HOUSEWIVES OF NEW YORK CITY STAR GIVES A TOUR OF HER CASUALLY CHIC COUNTRY HOUSE

DRAMA-FREE DECOR Frankel ordered the kitchen chairs (left) from Pottery Barn and then "ran with the red—that's my color!" The bathroom (right) has his and hers sinks, she notes, "in case there ever is a 'his.'" The living room's navy ottoman (below) is from West Elm.

"Everything here is easy," says Bethenny Frankel, sitting barefoot on the steps of her five-bedroom home in Bridgehampton, N.Y. From impromptu dinner parties (featuring leftover food and custom cocktails) to Slip N' Slide parties for her 5-year-old daughter Bryn, the Real Housewives of New York City star describes the vibe as "makeshift, casual and fun. I'm not worried about people spilling stuff."

The country-style farmhouse, plus guest cottage, which she bought in April, has become a much-needed escape from her televised spats with fellow Housewives—not to mention the never-ending divorce drama with her estranged husband, Jason Hoppy. Since the two split in December 2012, they have been battling over money and their Tribeca apartment, which Hoppy still occupies. (The two share custody of their daughter.) "I never felt comfortable in the Tribeca apartment," admits Frankel, 44. "It never felt like home."

Her new place, however, "represents peace, freedom," she says. "It's like the the Destiny's Child song 'Independent Women, Pt. 1': 'Shoes on my feet, I bought 'em. I depend on me.' I wanted to make this house mine."

That means nothing's too fussy or overly designed. "This is not a house out of Architectural Digest," she says. "I kind of threw it together." She recycled the same $99 IKEA mirror she's had since her first studio apartment (it's now in her master bedroom) and bought almost everything online from the likes of CB2 and West Elm. "Half of this house is from T.J. Maxx," she says. "I'm embarrassed by how much I go there. I'm in the T.J. Maxx witness protection program."

The result is airy and serene—not necessarily what you'd expect from the hard-driven businesswoman who turned her Skinnygirl margarita into a multimillion-dollar empire. "In New York you feel like you have to make a plan," she says. "Here you don't have to go anywhere. I set up the $5 Dora the Explorer sprinkler for the kids, and we all eat out back." (Bryn, who has her own candy-pink bedroom upstairs decorated with her dried pasta and Popsicle-stick artwork, "loves it," says Frankel.)

Entertaining is also stress-free. "I'll have Andy Cohen, maybe a housewife, some locals, and then seven kids running around," says Frankel. "I go into my fridge and clean out whatever's there. And I make the cocktails—I always have enough booze, obviously." Most nights her guests end up near the pool, gathered around the outdoor bar she had built out of reclaimed wood. "There's already damage," she says proudly, pointing to a gash in the wall. "That's the point! It means somebody had fun." —LIZ McNEIL

OUTDOOR FUN The red bike (above) was a Skinnygirl giveaway (and one was made for Frankel to keep). For the pool she traded in her outdoor patio chairs with cushions (that can get dirty) for mesh loungers from CB2. "I needed something low-maintenance," she says.

Russell SIMMONS

THE MUSIC AND FASHION MOGUL'S HOLLYWOOD HILLS HOME IS A HAVEN OF SPIRITUALITY AND SERENITY

When Russell Simmons—a native New Yorker—was looking for a West Coast home base in 2013, he fell in love with the Spanish-Mediterranean architecture and the lush blooms of Southern California. "The Spanish houses have flowers growing all over them," says the cofounder of Def Jam Recordings and creator of the Phat Farm fashion line. "It's so beautiful." He chose a five-bedroom, almost 6,000-sq.-ft. Hollywood Hills home, big enough to accommodate his many guests and, of course, his daughters Ming, 15, and Aoki, 12, who live nearby with his ex-wife Kimora Lee Simmons. A dedicated yogi who meditates twice daily—and who just launched a free app called Meditation Made Simple—Simmons has worked hard over the past two years to turn his house into a home. "I'm really happy here," says Simmons, 57. "Even though it's big by some standards, for me there's an intimacy to it. Too many empty seats make me uncomfortable." That less-is-more approach guides much of his life. "I'm trying to move toward a place of needing nothing," he says. His appreciation for Eastern philosophy can be seen in every room, where Buddhas of all shapes and sizes, which he picks out himself on his travels, embody his spiritual quest. "I like to be surrounded by things that remind me of the pursuit of enlightenment," says Simmons. The same idea could also apply to his impressive art collection, which includes a giant Jean-Michel Basquiat-Andy Warhol collaboration, as well as an original of Shepard Fairey's "Hope" poster, the iconic portrait of Barack Obama. "Some of my art is worth more than the house," he jokes.

Simmons's home showcases his love of modern art and Eastern religions. He practices yoga on the rear patio (opposite page and below), featuring a Buddha fountain. "The water trickles down the wall and is recycled again and again," he says.

THE SCANDAL STAR UNWINDS IN A MINIMALIST SPACE THAT'S SUITED TO LOW-KEY LIVING—AND LAVISH PARTIES

"This is our first house," says Lowes, 33, who moved into the 1922 Craftsman-style L.A. bungalow last September with her husband, Adam Shapiro, 35, an actor. "It feels super-grown-up and not my life!" A design devotee who decorated the house herself, Lowes describes her style as "rustic meets industrial" and keeps her eye out for pieces "that are meaningful and look good." She avoids clutter by keeping nonessentials out of sight; kitchen supplies, for instance, are stored in the window seat (above). But her minimalist impulses disappear when it comes to entertaining. "We're huge partyers," she says. "Halloween. Birthdays. Boozy brunches. The Scandal ladies come over for tea. If there's a party, I'm throwing it!" —MELODY CHIU

2. GLASSES AND CASES. "The bowl of glasses is kept by the front door. It's always piled high with sunglasses, regular glasses, keys and miscellaneous items."
3. DINING TABLE. "It's from a place called the Industry. We designed it together, and they made the leather benches to match."

THE JURASSIC WORLD STAR BLENDS COMFY AND QUIRKY IN HER FAMILY'S L.A.-AREA PAD

Four years ago, when Judy Greer, 40, moved in with now-husband Dean E. Johnsen, a producer, and his two children, the four-bedroom home in Thousand Oaks "looked like a Crate & Barrel showroom," says the actress. "It was nice, but it had man vibes." So she enlisted design firm Rubbish Interiors to add a few feminine touches. "I really like things that have texture and color," she says, like the burnt-orange console table and grass-cloth wallpaper they added in the all-purpose room. (The ottomans underneath serve as extra seating during parties.) But she didn't clean house entirely. "The sofa in the living room probably should be replaced—I just don't feel like it," she says. "It's so comfortable!" And that, in the end, is more important. "I want people to feel really welcome here," she says. "I hope guests don't want to leave!"

What inspired her loose waves?
It was so hot in Paris. We thought about putting her hair up, but it looked so good down, we thought, "We'll just leave it like that."

How long did it take you to style?
I've known Julia for almost 25 years now. I know her hair so well, it didn't take me more than half an hour, max. But I feel shy taking credit, because she's always had great hair. It has the most amazing texture.

That's such a pretty shade of lipstick. I used two colors. The first was very natural, so I pumped it up by adding pink on top.

What feature does she like to play up most?
She's more about eyes than lips. She already has her amazing lips!

Did she weigh in on the look?
Nope! She never gives directions. She says, "You're the experts," and sits there and is 100 percent all ours.

'EVERY DAY IS SOMETHING NEW'

Actress Claire Coffee admits she prefers everything neat and in its place. But for the first-time mom to 2-month-old son Calvin Eugene life just got way messier—and more fun. "I'm covered in baby puke and pee," says the 35-year-old star of NBC's Grimm. "I was worried that I would feel stressed about not being able to be as on top of things, but making sure he is safe and happy is my primary concern right now." Coffee says that Calvin—whose name was chosen because her husband, musician Chris Thile, 34, "loved Calvin and Hobbes"—inherited some features from each of his parents. "He has Chris's face shape, but he definitely has my nose," she says. And she is particularly excited about one inherited trait: "He has very long fingers and large hands, like Chris. That's good for playing stringed instruments or piano." In fact, Calvin has already taken an interest in Dad's profession. "He really loves music and sleeps better if there's a din of some kind," says the actress (who's beloved by soap fans for her time as Nadine Crowell on General Hospital). When Calvin's not sleeping—or causing chaos—Coffee is content to cherish each of her baby's milestones. "He's started to smile," she says. "Every day is something new—he's giving you these gifts." —ANTOINETTE Y. COULTON

One Last Thing

Joanna Garcia Swisher

The actress, 35, stars in the new ABC series The Astronaut Wives Club

Last injury
Last night I smacked my head with the remote control when I was getting into bed, and I can still feel it today. How does that even happen? I for sure saw stars.

Last vice
My husband [Cleveland Indians player Nick Swisher, 34] showed me how he eats cake in a bowl with milk poured over it. You can't go too deep with the milk, just enough to get it really gooey. It was delicious.

Last time I cringed
When my daughter [Emerson, 2] drank a day-old Slurpee that she found in my garage and said, "Oh, delicious!" I was like, "I'm going to vomit." I didn't leave it out; it was my husband!

Last thing I took from a set
I took vintage magazines from Betty Grissom's house [on Astronaut Wives] for my coffee table in my living room in L.A. I almost stole a lamp, but then I thought that would be a little too aggressive.

Last sunset
I really love twilight. Right now I'm walking to the pond in the back of the property, because my Chihuahua has made his way to the edge of the water and the geese are there. I'm almost positive that he rolled in goose poop, so yay for me. Can I update the last time I cringed?
